

Zoning Amendment to Council Group

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON
The Laws and Rules Committee of the Common Council will meet tonight and is expected to approve the so-called 51 per cent amendment, clearing the way for full Common Council action on May 6.

cording to Quick, some 30 persons turned out and all approved the change.

Plans Board Opposed

Quick read a letter from the city planning board which expressed disapproval of the change, noting that the proposal "had merit" but would not be workable under the present zoning code.

The amendment would require that any person seeking a change in zoning would have to receive the approval of 51 per cent of those persons living within a 500-foot radius of the proposed change.

Quick said that there were some questions raised as to the reasons for the planning board's decision in that the 51 per cent requirement was part of the original zoning code adopted in November of 1963. It was later dropped.

The planning board is an advisory panel with the final decision resting with the Common Council. However, it is required that zoning changes be forwarded to the planning board before a legal public hearing can be held on the change. If the planning board does not take action with 30 days, as was the case last night, the Laws and Rules Committee can then hold a public hearing.

Hearing Ruled Illegal

A public hearing on Feb. 28 by the Laws and Rules Committee was ruled illegal because the proposed change had not been forwarded to the planning board.

There has been a great deal of discussion, both pro and con, on this basic change in the city's zoning law now being proposed.

Proponents of the change have maintained that the change "will return zoning to the people." The most affected by zoning changes are those living in the immediate area.

Opponents of the change argue that the 51 per cent legislation would curtail the future growth of the city, particularly in the case of multiple dwellings in one and two-family residential areas.

A case in point is the proposed Hess Apartment complex in the Fairview Avenue section of the First Ward, (the old 12th) Louis J. Hess petitioned the Common Council, almost two years ago, to construct 150 units of garden-type apartments in an area zoned as R-1, basically one family residential. In order to build a zoning change was required. Residents of the area were strongly opposed to the change and turned out in large numbers at several public hearings on the zoning change. The Council, however, approved the change, leading residents of the area to take their case to court where it is still being decided.

Members of the Laws and Rules committee attending last night's public hearing included Quick, John Machione (R-Second Ward) and Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo. The full committee also includes James Madden (D-13th Ward) and Clifford Sinsabaugh (D-10th Ward).

Quick expressed confidence that the legislation will be approved by the Common Council next month. Seven votes would be required for passage.

Pompidou to Seek Post, Was Fired by De Gaulle

PARIS (UPI)—George Pompidou announced today he will seek the French presidency vacated by Charles de Gaulle, the man who fired him as prime minister last June.

The heavy-set politician told the leadership of the Gaullist party in a morning meeting that he felt it his duty to become a candidate. His aides reported a groundswell of voter sentiment supporting him.

After the decision of General De Gaulle to renounce his mandate and in the uncertainty which the country knows in this moment, I have resolved to present myself to the French voters," Pompidou said.

Already he was considered the favorite in a presidential election which could draw up to 10 candidates. He was the first to announce his candidacy.

De Gaulle in 1944 took on Pompidou as an aide and named him premier in 1962 in a surprise move and fired him just as abruptly in June.

Pompidou at the time of his dismissal had solved the student-labor strikes that crippled France and had engineered the subsequent Gaullist victory in parliamentary elections in which De Gaulle considered a mandate.

The chain-smoking former schoolteacher nevertheless supported his former mentor in Sunday's constitutional reform referendum which led to his downfall. It was the mark of the man.

Today Pompidou, 57, emerged as the favorite in the election to be called within five weeks to name a successor to De Gaulle, now secluded in his country home in Colombey-les-Deux-Églises.

Pompidou's Paris office was issuing reports of a groundswell building to boost him into the nation's leadership. The presidential election could be a political dogfight involving up to 10 candidates.

Senate President Alain Poher, 60, who took over as acting president Monday, most likely will set June 1 as the election date, political sources said. He could be a candidate himself.

It was apparent the nation was looking for a middle-of-the-road politician who could bring France out of its financial doldrums, solve student and labor unrest, and perhaps improve the French image around the world.

Even as the nation began seeking the man who could turn the trick, the price of gold shot up and the value of the franc dropped, indicating Frenchmen were exchanging their currency for gold in the climate of uncertainty that could bring devaluation.

Several of the nation's political leaders were rallying behind Pompidou, including Social Affairs Minister Maurice Schumann. Pompidou for President committees sprang up across France.

Pompidou was expected to announce his candidacy soon. He had said in January that he would be a candidate in the next presidential race anyway, for De Gaulle had said he would not be running in 1972.

Full Time Ulster DA in '71, Result of State Legislation

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON
Ulster County will have a full time district attorney in 1971. Legislation passed in Albany today calls for the establishment of such a position in all counties whose population is in excess of 100,000.

At present Ulster County has one part time district attorney and six assistants. The new legislation does not affect the role of the assistants.

The incumbent district attorney Joseph P. Torraca, who has supported legislation calling for a full time position for more than four years, said this morning that he felt the legislature's action was wise because the work load in a county of Ulster's size requires a man's full time. Torraca indicated that although he is not paid on a full time basis he has, since taking office had to devote 90 per cent of his time to the job.

Today's state legislation does not affect those district attorneys now in office but will become effective as of the next election for that post in November of 1970.

Interested in Full Term

Asked if he were interested in seeking another term as a full time DA, Torraca said yes.

He also indicated that he feels the present three-year term of office is not sufficient and would like to see it increased. He argues that the post is usually assumed during a lawyer's prime money-making years and that it is not expedient for a man to give up his practice, and take on the uncertainties of politics in seeking reelection, when the term is of such short duration.

Discussing Legislation

Torraca is meeting today with 12 other district attorneys from nearby counties such as Dutchess, Greene, Columbia, Sullivan and others. The men met at noon at the Kirkland Hotel for a luncheon meeting to discuss the new legislation.

Moves to enact a bill such as the one passed were made three times in the past three years with the measures being killed in committee each time.

Torraca said that the matter was even included in the work of the Constitutional Convention which wanted to enlarge the term of a district attorney's office.

Torraca said that support for the measure came from the New York State District Attorney's Association.

Asked if any proposal for a full time district attorney for Ulster was ever made before the county legislature, Torraca said no.

At present Ulster has six assistant district attorneys whose salaries range from $5,300 to $7,300. They include Francis Vogt, James H. Fischer, Philip Schunk, Edward Greene, Ellen Donovan and Joseph J. Traficanti, Jr.

The new state legislation will bar the full time district attorneys from practicing law or any other profession that could conflict with their duties.

Detailing some of the work of the district attorney's office, Torraca said that "the increase in motions, appeals, (Continued on Page 9, Col. 4)

Decentralization Showdown; Gun Control Passage Near

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller's drive to keep guns off college campuses in the state was in high gear today, while the legislature's leaders again pushed to move a school decentralization bill onto the floor.

It was the ninth straight working day for the 207 weary lawmakers, who have been awaiting anxiously a decentralization plan they could vote on and thus nail down an elusive adjournment.

The legislators were guardedly optimistic that today would be the day for the do-or-die showdown on how New York City's huge public-school system will be carved into community districts.

The emphasis apparently has shifted from trying to come up with a measure to satisfy everyone—especially so-called minority groups and teachers' groups—to simply laying down a bill on a take-it-or-leave-it basis.

This prospect was heightened Monday, when reporters asked Rockefeller at an informal briefing whether getting all parties satisfied just wasn't feasible.

"That's a possibility," the governor replied.

Rockefeller showed his caution on the lingering decentralization problem by pulling a chicken wishbone out of his pocket and saying:

"Well, I'm wishful."

By contrast, he evidenced delight over Assembly passage of the gun - ban proposal he had urged to help maintain order on college campuses.

Under its provisions, anyone who unlawfully occupied a school building while armed would be liable to a seven-year prison sentence.

Moreover, possession of a firearm without the written authorization of school officials could result in a year in jail and a fine of $1,000.

The Senate is expected to concur.

The only major item on the legislature's agenda is the supplemental budget bill, which covers expenditures that were not anticipated when the main budget was adopted last month.

That bill is reported to be ready, although details have not been disclosed.

Not a Major Hurdle

Indications were that the supplemental budget would not be a major hurdle. The Republican leadership hinted that, once decentralized was out of the way, it would take only one more day to wrap up all other business and adjourn.

Monday's session provided two victories for Rockefeller.

In addition to giving initial approval to the governor's gun-ban proposal, the Assembly passed overwhelmingly his so-called "food-on-the-table" program, designed to help combat malnutrition and hunger in the state.

The basic tack is for New York's social service districts to utilize more extensively federal food-stamp and food-distribution programs.

The only Assembly opposition to the campus - gun bill came from four Democrats, who argued that the measure was no more than a late-hour reaction to college disturbances.

Assemblyman Jerome Kretschmer, D - Manhattan, explained his dissent by saying:

"All we ever do is decide that such activity on campus is a crime. When are we going to try to deal with the situations that cause it?"

Anger Sparked

Several assemblymen referred to the recent seizure of a Cornell University building by armed students. That incident sparked anger at the Capitol and was cited by Rockefeller when he made a special appeal for legislative approval of the bill.

Ferraro to Seattle Pilots: 'Will Not Play in Minors'

By CHARLES J. TIANO

KINGSTON
"I will never play minor league baseball again."

Those were the words Mike Ferraro told his father, Peter, in a telephone conversation Monday night after being told that he was being optioned by the Seattle Pilots of the American League to Vancouver, B. C., of the Pacific Coast League.

His major league future shrouded in uncertainty, Ferraro flies home to this city today.

Under baseball law, Ferraro

remains the property of the Pilots, who paid $175,000 for him when they obtained him from the New York Yankees in the 1968 expansion draft.

He is free to try to make a deal for himself with any other major league team, but as of Monday night was reported undecided on that move.

Seattle general manager Marvin Milkes notified the Kingston-born third baseman that he was being sent to the Pilots' minor league team at Vancouver. Ferraro immediately balked and Milkes told him to think it over a couple of days and promised to try to negotiate a deal with some other major league team.

When Ferraro remained adamant about returning to the minors, the Seattle club put Ferraro's name on the waiver list and he was not claimed by any other major league team.

It has been learned, however, that the Houston Astros and Baltimore Orioles expressed interest in Ferraro but in each case wanted to send him to their Triple A farm teams.

General Manager Harry Dalton of the Orioles and Milkes tried to persuade Ferraro to report to the Rochester Red Wings of the International League. The Astros wanted Mike for their Oklahoma City team in the Pacific Coast League.

Ferraro rejected both offers, telling Milkes and the Seattle brass he felt his minor league record entitled him to a clear shot at a major league job as third baseman.

Rakov Seeks Onteora Post

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

WOODSTOCK
Among the area residents who have announced their candidacy for the Onteora Central Schools Board of Education is Peter W. Rakov, of Woodstock. Rakov is seeking a five-year term, one of five seats open on the board. His name will appear on the ballot at the school district-wide election May 7, registration for which will be held May 6.

Voters will also be asked to approve the proposed 1969-1970 budget in the amount of $4,179,771 during the May 7 voting. Rakov, commenting on that budget today, said: "The proposed increase of eight per cent over last year's budget, while certainly significant, is not due to the addition of new programs and innovations within the system. It is simply due to the well-documented cost-of-living rise, as well as state-mandated and contractual obligations."

Deeply Concerned

The Woodstock candidate added, however, that "This is all, nevertheless, disturbing." He said: "I am deeply concerned by the statement of Superintendent of Schools Dr. Harold Snyder that 'we now have a good system with a median tax rate, but our trend shows that we could easily have a mediocre system with a low tax rate.' I want to serve on the board to help seek ways to improve the system while maintaining a tax rate which reflects the financial ability and school-system goals of the electorate."

Rakov served on the Onteora School District Citizen's Survey Committee in 1966, a lay committee, established by the Board of Education, which worked for six months to project the system's building needs. He was a member of the Curriculum Subcommittee. The report of the entire committee was accepted by the board, and a high school elementary school bond issue was prepared and approved by voters on the first vote. Also concerned with post-public school education matters, he is presently president of Colgate University's Mid-Hudson Valley Alumni Club.

Rotron Manager

Educated at Colgate and Columbia Universities, with a degree from each in English, he has worked for IBM and Rotron for the past 10 years. A resident of Woodstock since 1961, he is presently the Manager of Administrative Services at Rotron Incorporated. He and his wife Natalie, a former teacher in the Bennett School, and their two children, reside on West Road in Woodstock.

Among other civic endeavors, Rakov presently serves on the Board of Trustees of the Woodstock Library. He is also a member of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce's Manpower Development Committee, a group dedicated to the employment of disadvantaged persons in good jobs with futures. He was recently elected to the Board of Directors of the Kingston branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. The Turnau Opera Company, lately of Woodstock, and Kingston's Coach House Players were recent objects of his endeavors as he served these groups as a member of the Board of Directors and publicity chairman, respectively.

UCCC Seeking Scholarship Aid

STONE RIDGE

Ulster County Community College presently is seeking scholarship assistance to permit a larger number of deserving students to attend college. Dr. George B. Erbstein, president, announced today.

Scholarships are awarded to UCCC undergraduates and to graduates planning to go on and work toward a baccalaureate degree at a four-year college or university.

Louis Berger, Ellenville, chairman of the UCCC board of trustees' scholarship committee, invites members of the public to contribute to this fund so they can share in meeting the needs of students. Other members are Adrian Kaplan, Kingston, and Joseph Alfano, Highland.

"We are receiving favorable response for scholarship aid," said Dr. Erbstein, "but there is an increasing need because of the growing number of students desiring a college education."

The president said that any amount of contribution will be helpful, even small ones. He added that it is possible to have jointly sponsored scholarships for students through a series of small contributions.

Dr. Erbstein said there is a special scholarship need for UCCC graduates who have the ability and aspiration to complete a baccalaureate degree at a four-year college or university. This results from the increased financial demands of an upper division college or university which can be deterrent for many capable students with limited personal financial resources.

"In addition," the president said, "we are seeking scholarship contributions so an increasing number of disadvantaged students can pursue a higher education at our community college."

The awarding of scholarships is handled by a faculty Scholarship Committee at UCCC headed by Roger F. Beaulieu, an assistant professor of biology.

Information about scholarships and other financial assistance can be obtained at the college from Mrs. Jean Robertaccio, a financial aids counselor.

Budget Hearing Is Orderly

A reported plan by the Saugerties Teachers Association to disrupt a Jaycees meeting here Monday night where Dr. Dexter O. Arnold of the Saugerties Central Schools discussed that school's 1969-70 budget apparently fizzled.

It had been rumored here that the association, bargaining agents for the school's teachers who are at an impasse with the district over salary schedules, planned to present "loaded questions" to the superintendent during a question and answer period at the informational meeting.

At Doors With Leaflets

Robert Brandt, chairman of the Saugerties Jaycees committee running the meeting, told The Freeman in an interview after the program that he had heard of a teachers' play to "embarrass" the superintendent. He said members of the teachers association were at the doors of the high school auditorium and were handing out leaflets.

The leaflets suggested questions that could have been asked by the more than 300 persons present and Brandt said the handouts were the only visible actions of the association.

He said the meeting was "orderly" and that questions regarding the $4.49-million budget were routine. As much as $1,417,000 is expected to be raised locally for the budget with the remainder coming from state and federal aid, and other sources.

The district's tax rate is expected to be in the area of $124 per $1,000 valuation, but

Hurley Against Airport Locale

By SHANE CROSSBY

HURLEY

A "White Paper" issued to the Town Board here by a citizen's committee was turned over to the board Monday night and according to Supervisor Robert Schneller recommends that it be formally opposed construction of a proposed county airport in the town.

The paper, not read at the meeting in the Hurley Fire House was set aside by the board for discussion at a closed executive session planned for May 12.

In another matter, the supervisor denied that Wilbur R. Peters, Kingston resident manager for Central Hudson Gas and Electric and chairman of the Hurley Planning Board, had taken part in discussions regarding a proposed high voltage power line through the town.

He said Peters had "abstained himself" from the recent talks, held to iron out the issue of the power line that would be in conflict with local zoning laws if installed.

Probably Opposition Likely

Schneller said the board will tell the county's airport commission that the town is opposed to selecting Hurley as the location, and indicated that the board would also go against the construction of an airport anywhere in the county.

Contrary to recommendations of the airport commission calling for a maximum of 6,000 feet of runway at the proposed facility, Schneller told The Freeman that the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) had recommended a runway half that length. The supervisor said the FAA had suggested the county construct a 3,000 foot runway at the airport.

Engineers for the Airport Commission have outlined a runway on Hurley Mountain that would be a maximum of 6,000 feet long and capable of handling planes of up to 12,900 pounds, according to disclosures made in February.

Members of the commission have called the Hurley location an "ideal site." One member, Edward deGroff, said recently: "With the planes on the mountain, you won't even hear them coming and going in the village of Hurley." He said the flight paths of the airport would be over the Route 28 interchange to the north and "well south of Kingston" in the other direction.

Opposition in Hurley to the proposed airport in recent months has resulted in the town's forming the "White Paper" and has created a stir in the community with somewhat mixed opinions.

The proposed power line was said by the planning board to be the most feasible route through the township, according to Schneller who also said the town board now will discuss the matter further before any decision is made.

Schneller said there was "no conflict of interest" involved in the planning board meeting with the utility since Peters did not take part. The supervisor said he was opposed to the line going through the town because it would "destroy needed farmland," and added he would push for a second route.

The planning board's decision on the utility's plan was not "legal permission" to go ahead with the project, said the supervisor.

Saying he is a "staunch supporter of natural beauty," Schneller said Central Hudson should use a route that would not endanger the land. He talked of using an underground line or one that would follow the Esopus Creek through the town and said "modern technical means" should be employed by the utility, rather than the "straight line" now under discussion.

Schneller shied away from remarks that the line would be against zoning laws written by the planning board that held talks with the utility.

That law is still in the state Supreme Court awaiting a final decision as to its legality. Town Attorney Robert F. MacKinnon told the board that Justice Harold E. Koreman is expected to make a ruling in May on the legality of the ordinance that has been in the state's highest court since 1967.

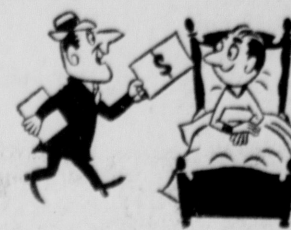

Nine Hurley residents were granted a temporary injunction in April, 1967, against enforcement of the 1965 ordinance. Another zoning ordinance was passed last December, but the lawyer said the state justice would rule on the law to "clear the matter from the records."

He said there was a technicality involved in that there could be no zoning until the injunction was taken off the books of the court.

One of the nine granting the injunction, Henry Faul, said Monday night the Central Hudson line would be illegal if there was zoning in force and said "someone has influence" in the discussions on the line's construction. The supervisor said his charge of influence was "possibly" true, but said chairman Peters was not involved in the issue.

Schneller said letters had been sent to the State Public Service Commission regarding the proposed line and to State Senator

Jay P. Rolison and Assemblyman H. Clark Bell. He said that no answers have been received from the commission, Rolison, or Bell.

Broadway East Nursing Home?

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

The Kingston Urban Renewal Agency expects to meet tonight with "an interested developer" who wants to build a 160-bed nursing home in the Broadway East Urban Renewal area.

Agency Executive Director James G. Connors has confirmed that the developer has been in contact with the agency and that the agency has asked him to submit plans and a financial statement.

Connors said the land would be available if an agreement can be reached between the developer and the agency. The nursing home would be built near the site of the proposed Kingston City Hall at the intersection of Broadway and Meadow Street.

Details on the project are still incomplete but Connors said a full report would be forthcoming from the agency "as soon as we have something definite."

Meanwhile, the agency is working on a neighborhood commercial development in Broadway East. Progress is being stymied, according to Connors, by "that old bugaboo," the proposed Ulster Arterial.

In an effort to get some action on the arterial, the Common Council authorized letters to be sent to Assemblyman H. Clark Bell and Senator Jay P. Rolison Jr. asking for a meeting between the Council and the two

Tyrrell said, "under the terms of the local resolution, the guidance council will consist of not less than three nor more than five members who shall be appointed by the local legislative body for a term not exceeding three years and shall include at least one clergyman, one attorney and one physician." "The chairman of the council will be designated by the members of the Common Council and the members of the local legislative body may remove any members of the narcotic guidance council, after a public hearing, if requested." The narcotic guidance council will direct itself toward accomplishing the following:

Provides for Amendment. The bill provides for an amendment to the general municipal law. Under the terms of the amendment, the Kingston City Council, may by resolution create one or more narcotic guidance councils. The guidance trouble areas to their attention. Speaker Set May 19 Tyrrell said, "The parents of our school children have displayed an active interest in this area of difficulty." Mrs. Evelyn Larkin of Tillson and other women have invited Charles Ward of the New York State Narcotics Control Commission to speak on the organization of a narcotic guidance council. He will speak before the members of the J.

Tax Evasion Costs Brothers $5,000 Each

NEW YORK (AP)—Two brothers, officers of a Middletown, N.Y. foundry, were fined $5,000 each Monday by federal court judge Inzer B. Wyatt on convictions that they lied about their personal assets.

The Internal Revenue Service had investigated the failure of the Castwell Foundry Corp. to forward to the government quarterly returns of taxes withheld from its employees. The government put the figure at $110,000.

Americo Fratello of Hollis, Queens, was convicted Feb. 21 of lying about his assets. He said he had $77,000, while the government claimed he had $227,000.

Fratello's brother, Peter, pleaded guilty Feb. 17 to the same charge. He said he had $30,000 instead of $250,000 claimed by the government.

Fish Lauds 'War' on Crime

President Nixon's all out declaration of war on organized crime is the most significant of all the messages sent by him to Capitol Hill, according to Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. "Action is long overdue," he suggests. "Perhaps because the corrosive effects of organized crime is more subtle than such crimes as vandalism, assault and burglary, action has been too long in coming. The last administration did not even make use of tools already provided by Congress. Congressman Fish says he believes one of the problems facing citizens is their attitude on organized crime. It is hard for them to fully realize that the gangster no longer wears a broad brimmed hat, or carries a tommy gun. Today he often works in executive suites and wears tailor-made business suits.

"The shift has been costly to America," Fish declares.

"The congressman adds that although no one has any exact figures on the illicit profits, estimates from the yearly take from illegal gambling alone, the main source of funds for organized crime, is set anywhere from $20 to $50 billion a year.

"Prostitution, loansharking, numbers and dope all add to this annual take," he concludes.

Fish said further that one of the most important aspects of President Nixon's message is his determination to strike at the vast financial resources of organized crime through the use of seizure, monetary fines and treble damage actions and the powers of forfeiture proceedings.

"As the president said: The arrest, conviction and imprisonment of a Mafia lieutenant can curtail operations, but does not put the syndicate out of business. As long as the property of organized crime remains, new leaders will come forward to take the place of those we jail.

Fish said that this fact is underscored by knowledge that although many of the nation's most notorious racketeers have been imprisoned or deported over the years, not a single one of the 24 Cosa Nostra families operating in our country has been destroyed. In fact, they are more firmly entrenched than ever. "The approach of the President to strike at the financial heart of the Mafia is sound, and immediately following the President's message last week, I took the floor of the House and pledged my full support of his program, for like President Nixon, in my campaign, I pledged to fight crime. The President is keeping his pledge and I am keeping mine."

Rescue Army Convoy From Ambush by Reds

SAIGON (UPI) — American warplanes, helicopter gunships and artillery rescued a U.S. Army convoy from the jaws of a Communist ambush north of Saigon, military spokesmen said today. The onslaught of U.S. firepower killed 11 guerrillas and sent the other ambushers fleeing.

Two GIs died and 11 were wounded battling the Communists who opened up on their convoy with machine guns and antitank rockets as it approached Quan Loi, a supply base for the U.S. 1st Infantry Division 50 miles north of Saigon, front reports said.

The battle Monday was one of a number of Communist attacks in the same general area near the Cambodian border. U.S. B52 bombers hit back late Monday and today with raids against guerrilla camps 35 to 71 miles northwest of the South Vietnamese capital.

From Dense Jungle

American headquarters said the guerrillas sprang their ambush from dense jungle along the side of Highway 13 approaching Quan Loi. Dive bombers with napalm and helicopter gunships with machine guns broke the attack, war communiques reported.

Overnight, the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese carried out four shelling attacks considered "significant" by U.S. headquarters, including a rocket barrage into 1st Division headquarters at Lai Khe, 28 miles northwest of Saigon. Losses were described as light.

American infantrymen and armored columns sweeping through the flat jungle north and northwest of Saigon turned up two Communist food and arms caches and overran a guerrilla bunker camp.

evidence of the Reds' buildup on approaches to the capital.

17 Reds Killed

Military spokesmen said 17 Communists died defending the bunker camp which American GIs captured 65 miles northwest of Saigon. One U.S. soldier was killed in the attack behind a steady stream of dive bomber support.

An armor unit sweeping through the forests 50 miles north-northwest of Saigon discovered their second cache in as many days, this one containing three tons of rice, 100 pounds of medical supplies, six bicycles and assorted ammunition.

Yet another unit of the U.S. 25th Division seized 20 tons of rice and five long-range rockets from a cache 27 miles northwest of Saigon, the U.S. command said.

Long Siege Expected At Southern College

By United Press International

Some 75 black militants, armed with rifles, shotguns and knives, held the Voorhees College Library-Administration Building today but the president of the South Carolina school refused to call police or set a time limit for the students to leave.

At Harvard University undergraduates voted not to renew a student strike, while at Radcliffe, Harvard's sister college, students twice invaded the Administration Building and shouted obscenities at President Mary Bunting.

The students at Voorhees appeared to be set for a long siege. They were fortified with an estimated $5,000 worth of food taken from the college cafeteria at gunpoint.

Plaster Windows

They plastered front windows of the Administration Building with newspaper pictures of black militant Malcolm X and a sign proclaiming the structure the "Liberated Malcolm X Building." They distributed leaflets, saying their weapons were "for defensive purposes only."

The Harvard vote found 3,222 students opposed to resumption of a six-day strike which kept nearly two-thirds of the school's undergraduates out of classes. Members of Students for a Democratic Society and the Afor-American Society said they would continue the boycott until their demands, including the elimination of ROTC on the campus, were met.

At exclusive Radcliffe, President Bunting sat quietly at her desk while about 100 students paraded in and around her office. They called her "pig."

"house" and a scattering of four-letter words. The students were protesting disciplinary action against 22 girls.

On other campuses:

Memphis State University — Police arrested 109 persons as they broke up sit-in at Memphis State University. The students all but six of them black, refused to leave the office of the president.

St. Louis University — About 25 St. Louis University students led by members of the Association of Black Collegians left the Administration Building of the Roman Catholic institution today after administrators signed an agreement expressing "regret for any harassment" to which black students have been subject.

Queens College — Demonstrators took over the three top floors of the 12-story Administration Building in New York City demanding amnesty for 39 arrested in an earlier protest.

Cornell University — President James A. Perkins said his school gave in to demands of armed black students last week to avoid "what seemed at the time to be much too great a risk of bloodshed." He said he was "sickened" by the armed sit-in.

City College of New York remained closed indefinitely while officials negotiated with black and Puerto Rican students.

Iowa — About 300 students braved chilly weather to march on the Iowa Statehouse Monday in an attempt to influence legislation. They carried signs saying "Support your local legislator, make going to college illegal."

Rockefeller Signs Child Abuse Bill

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Governor Rockefeller signed into law Monday a bill to protect children under the age of 16 from being abused by their parents.

"The legislation recognizes the fact that child abuse cases require a high degree of immediacy and special attention, since such cases often concern a matter of life or death," Rockefeller said.

— Create a special child neglect division of Family Court to handle cases now in Family Court involving child abuse and neglect.

— Forward all records on child abuse from the welfare, police, hospitals and other sources immediately to the new child neglect section of the court.

— Establish a child identification system using social security numbers.

— Authorize doctors to hold an abused child in temporary custody until police or a district attorney's office can be notified.

— Require that doctors, hospitals, social and welfare workers and teachers report suspected cases of child abuse.

— Require mandatory removal of an abused or neglected child from homes where either parent is known or reported as a drug addict.

Rockefeller said the bill was drawn up by a special committee appointed by Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea "to develop a legislative response to the recent tragic series of child brutality cases."

Salinas Takes Post As Bolivia President

By United Press International

Quiet-spoken, formal Luis Adolfo Siles Salinas, 43, became president of Bolivia Sunday on the death of Rene Barrientos in a helicopter crash.

An attorney by profession and a former professor, Siles Salinas is half-brother of one former Bolivian president and the son of another. He ran for the vice presidency as running mate of Barrientos on the Bolivian Revolutionary Front FRB ticket in 1966.

Siles Salinas is considered to represent the right wing of the party. Although he has only a small personal following, he is known to be respected by Bolivian military men and intellectuals alike.

Personal contrast between Barrientos and Siles Salinas is a sharp one. Barrientos was a very informal person; he disliked protocol. Siles Salinas is a stickler for correct procedure.

Personal relations between Barrientos and Siles Salinas had been on the chilly side in recent months because of the variance in their personalities and their approaches to government problems.

Siles Salinas entered politics as a major force in 1945 as a leader of the Social Democrat party PSD, an organization of university intellectuals. Its strength declined after 1952 when it declined to participate in national elections.

Siles Salinas joined the current Bolivian government party, the FRB, when the PSD failed to achieve national recognition in the 1966 elections.

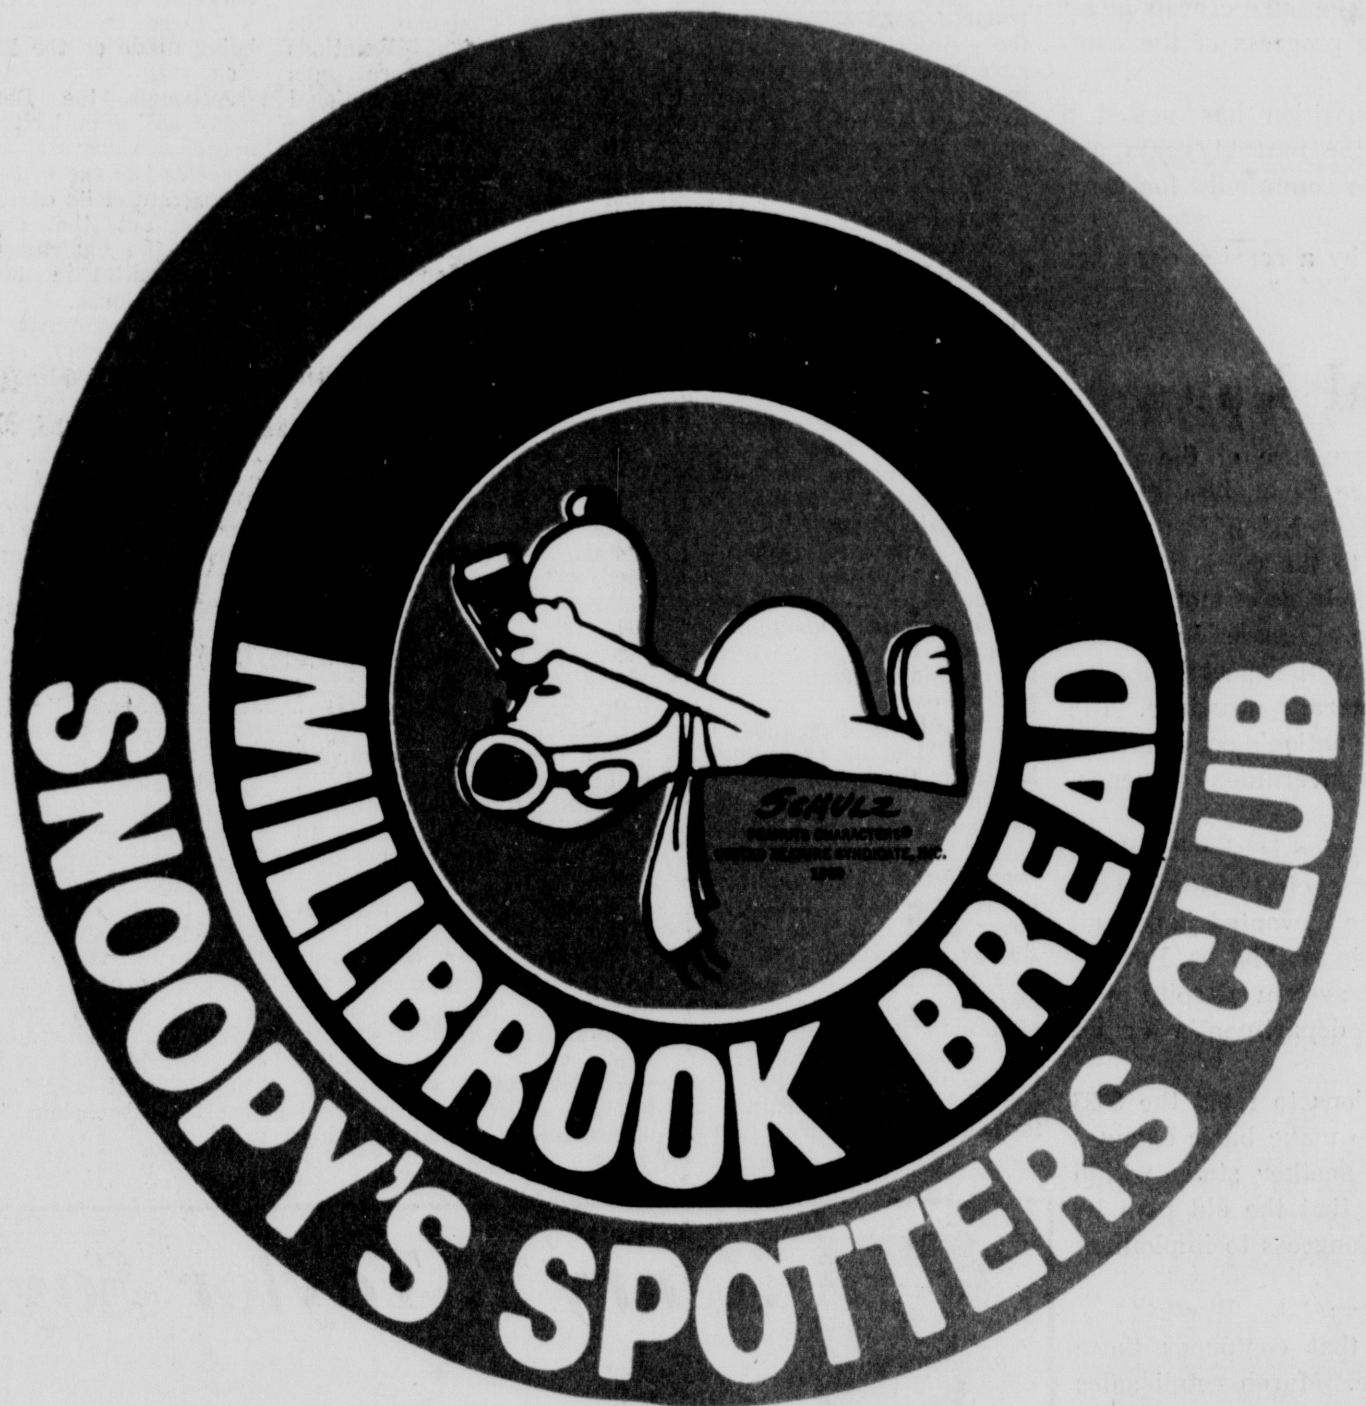

A former director of the National Manufacturers Association, Siles Salinas was also a coordinator for the United Nations' technical assistance program for Bolivia.

He studied philosophy at the University of Lima Peru and later law at the University of La Paz.

Born in June, 1925, Siles Salinas is married to Clemencia Santa Cruz. They have four children, two boys and two girls.

Prior to assuming the presidency on the death of Barrientos, Siles Salinas had been acting president on five occasions in the past three years during absences from Bolivia of Barrientos on state visits.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, APRIL 29, 1969

Exposition Health Clinic

The Kingston Lions Club is to be commended for including a health clinic as one of the major attractions at its 22nd annual exposition, which opens tonight at the New York State Armory on Manor Avenue.

Cooperating in making the health screening clinic available to all patrons are the Ulster County Health Department and the Bureau of Chronic Diseases and Geriatrics of the New York State Health Department. In addition, other agencies offering their services are the Mid-Hudson Heart Association, Ulster County TB and Health Association, Ulster County Medical Society and Auxiliary, American Diabetic Association and the Lions Sight, Health and Welfare Committees.

Tests to be offered will include blood pressure, diabetes, chest X-ray, glaucoma, breathing and electro-cardiogram.

For this highly important service to the residents of the area, there is no additional charge to the general admission to the exposition.

The Lions Club and the health agencies recognize that many residents haven't given too much thought to the importance of a checkup and early diagnosis. The only thing necessary to make this health clinic successful is for the people to take advantage of this service.

The health clinic is but one of the highlights of this great local undertaking which brings together the entire spectrum of local industry in such dramatic fashion. On display are the products, the inventiveness and the skills of the community's people. The huge crowds attest to their interest and pride in the progress of the community.

The Kingston Lions Club Exposition has netted a quarter of a million dollars in the past 21 years and the money has gone back into the community for charitable purposes.

This truly is a service project by a service organization.

Higher Postal Rates

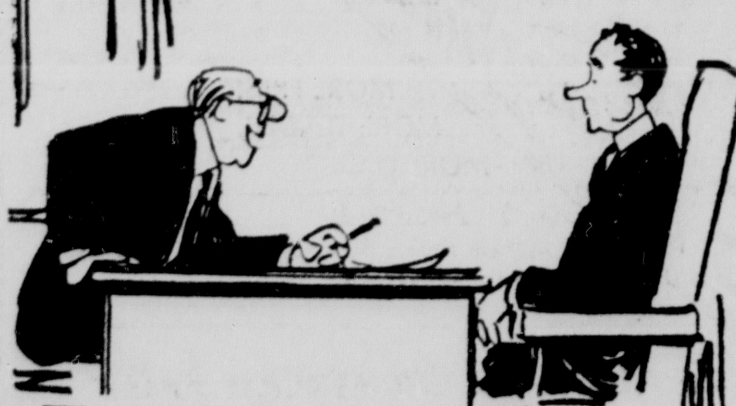

Basic overhaul of the entire structure of the postal department should be tried before first class mail is increased to seven cents. President Nixon has tossed tradition and partisan advantage to the winds when he decided to name postmasters on the basis of merit alone. He should now go for the proposal made during the Johnson administration to operate the postal department as a federally owned corporate structure. The non-profit corporation could run the nation's postal affairs as a private business divorced from government influence, either legislative or executive.

Throughout the country, mail service is slowing down and new communities are experiencing difficulty in obtaining door-to-door service. More unwanted junk mail is accumulating at post offices and in mail boxes. Pornography is still flooding the mail system despite new restrictions and the post office department's deficit continues to climb.

The President is putting obligations to meet the $623 million deficit ahead of the need to make basic changes in the system. He has promised another study within the next two months. We suggest that the old plan be studied and action taken through Congress to implement the recommendation.

People are buying at a rate that confounds those trying to reduce inflation pressure. March retail sales were up $226,000,000 over February and $1 billion over December, and the third successive month of advances. The pace of personal consumption indicates people are putting money in goods, not in reserve.

BERRY'S WORLD

"EVERYBODY'S doing it—what do you say to lending your name to a fast-food franchising business?"

"All Aboard for the Country and Party!"

David Lawrence Says

Great Damage in Congress By the Opposition Party

WASHINGTON — The big story in the national capital is not how President Nixon has fared in his first 100 days in office. It is, rather, the tragic failure of that part of the American system of government which permits a majority from one political party to control both Houses of Congress while a chief executive is elected from another party.

This means standstill government as the opposition party members not only snipe at the administration on legislative proposals for domestic affairs but actually interfere with the conduct of foreign affairs by emphasizing to the world a mood of dissension, if not irresponsibility. A pertinent question is: "What has Congress done in the last 100 days?"

The American system is weak because the people do not have to vote for a party but may select members of Congress from one party and the president from the opposition party.

With all the suggestions for Constitutional amendments being in Congress nowadays — mostly about direct or popular election of presidents — not a single proposal has been offered which would give the American people a government. This could be readily attained if the president and his cabinet were always an integral part of a majority organization in the Senate and House of analogous combination of cabinet officers could be formed by the minority party.

Henry J. Taylor Says

Palestine Arab Evictees

There is much more than an Israel headache in the dramatic Arab commando suicide attacks that explode in the news. The political purpose is powerful — and effective.

The Arabs reason that their guerrilla warfare is the first and best step in forcing Israel to evacuate the Sinai Peninsula, the west bank of the Jordan River and the Golan Heights of Syria held since the six-day 1967 war. And our State Department considers the Arabs' special facilities for this to be more widespread than we may suppose.

The key comes in the failure to distinguish the Palestine Arabs from other Arabs in the Arab world. In the 1948 Palestine war, Israel took about 3,000 square miles more territory than the United Nations resolution of November 29, 1947, gave her. About a million of today's evicted Arab refugees date from that time — 20 years ago. But this is only the better known part of the pressure.

Contrary to our general misimpression of ancient mutual hatred, there is probably nowhere on earth that Jews have traditionally lived more peacefully and successfully than in the Arab world, and for centuries.

Islam is, in fact, an assimilation of both Judaism and Christianity. Islam and Judaism had much closer spiritual ties across the centuries than did Judaism and Christianity as Christianity evolved toward a Western-oriented religion.

It was the Arab peoples and the Moslem "church" which gave shelter and asylum to Jews fleeing Christian Europe from the Spanish Inquisition and the persecution of tsarist Russia down to the ghastly exterminations which Hitler called "the final solution."

As a booty of World War I Britain seized Palestine under the Balfour Declaration, obtained a League of Nations mandate, and set up shop to enhance Britain's commercial and strategic interests — and by so doing violated every pledge Britain had given the Arabs in order to gain their help against the Turks in World War I.

It was then, not 1948, that the influx of European Jews and the eviction of the Palestine Arabs began. The 92 per cent Arab, eight per cent Jewish population changed to 65 per cent Arab, 35 per cent Jewish by the time Britain surrendered the Palestine mandate to the United Nations after World War I.

Today a further radically instigated by groups in our midst with some foreign influence behind them, and hence subject to federal surveillance and prosecution — there is little progress being made on the legislative side.

Although the Democratic party has a majority in both Houses of Congress, it has not presented in the last 100 days a program of its own in either house. Yet the Democrats control the chairmanships of all committees in the Senate and the House.

What is primarily lacking is a system of party discipline. President Johnson had a majority of his party six years, but he, too, was faced with revolts. While a coalition of certain Republicans with Democrats produced for him a majority vote on some important pieces of legislation, this merely accentuated the lack of a system of party responsibility.

The American people in the 1970 election will vote to fill all the seats in the House of Representatives but only one third of the Senate. This is a lop-sided arrangement which makes it possible for the Senate to become Republican next time while the House stays Democratic. The people would be far better served if elections were held every four years in which the entire membership of both houses had to go before the people along with the presidential nominees. This would at least be a start toward responsible government.

Drew Pearson Says Senator Dirksen Is True Friend of Big Businessmen

The Questionable "Pill"
On March 19, 1969, Pearson and Anderson reported in some detail regarding side effects resulting from the use of "The Pill." They quoted figures from British authorities indicating that women who took the birth control pill were subjected to a greater cancer risk.

On April 22, the Scripps-Howard newspapers published in detail similar reports from British and American medical authorities.

WASHINGTON — Witty, wily Everett Dirksen, the basso profundo from Illinois, has become the inside man for an array of big-money interests that want wires pulled in Washington.

He is paid by the taxpayers to serve the public interest, but he does his most effective work for the powerful private interests — the big steel producers, drug interests, insurance companies, oil and gas industries, business and banking combines and others with axes to grind.

The delightful Dirksen champions these special interests with such style, however, that his colleagues in the cloakrooms and his pals of the press are loathe to criticize him. He leaves his contemporaries and critics smiling when they ought to be outraged.

It is much easier to get indignant about Roman Hruska, the lackluster Senator from Nebraska, who works in tandem with Dirksen in greasing the government wheels for the special interests. Usually, Dirksen calls the signals while Hruska runs with the ball.

Of late, however, old Ev has become more open in his manipulations. At a public hearing he threatened to get Clifford Alexander, Jr., fired as chairman of the Equal Opportunities Commission for "harrassing" businessmen. Next day, Dirksen made good his threat. The White House announced that Alexander would not be renamed to the chairmanship.

Apparently, Alexander had been pressing businessmen too vigorously to comply with fair employment practices, which is what the taxpayers had him to do. He was fired for doing his job.

The removal of Alexander, however, hasn't stopped the government's pressure upon businessmen to obey the Civil Rights laws. The Justice Department has filed a civil rights suit against some Chicago slumlords in Dirksen's home state.

This has got old Ev rumbling menacingly again in his wheezing baritone. Although he's a professed advocate of law and order, he doesn't seem to believe in enforcing the laws that annoy his businessmen friends.

Some of these friends would like to be free of the law which bars government practicing job discrimination. A sympathetic Dirksen has threatened to revise the law if the government persists in enforcing it.

ABM Is Good Business
Dirksen has also taken the forefront in the fight for an anti-ballistic missile system. Insiders claim that Dirksen's Senate offices have become headquarters for some of the defense contractors eager to get their hands on the billions to be spent on the ABM system.

These contractors were troubled. It is known, over President Nixon's plan to appoint Dr. Franklin Long, an ABM opponent, as head of the National Science Foundation. Dirksen immediately set up a howl at the White House against Long, whose appointment was promptly dropped.

Dirksen also admitted to reporters that he had blocked the appointment of Dr. John Knowles as Assistant Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare "because the doctors opposed him." Knowles was too progressive to suit the powerful American Medical Association, whose medical bag Dirksen carries on Capitol Hill. Ev battled against Medicare and drug regulations at the instigation of the medical and drug interests.

The sonorous Senator from Illinois also forced the resignation of William Driver as Veterans Administrator, though Driver had the unanimous support of all the leading veterans organizations. We have been unable to find out the reason for Dirksen's opposition to the popular Driver. It may be significant, however, that Dirksen is close to some of the insurance companies who lost the scramble for the Veterans Administration's $40 billion insurance business. Driver awarded the contract to Prudential.

It was Dirksen, too, who inveigled the President into appointing the controversial

Otto Otepka to the Subversive Activities Control Board. Otepka is the darling of the right wing, and his appointment was lobbied by the neo-Nazi Liberty Lobby. There is no reason to believe, of course, that Dirksen is connected with the Nazis. But he was a patsy for the right wing Flick-Reedy Education Enterprises of Bensenville, Ill., strong backers of Otepka.

Dirksen is ready to throw his considerable influence behind almost any corporation that seeks favors in Washington. A number of grateful corporations, in turn, have sought out Dirksen's law firm in Peoria, Ill., for legal counsel. But he is such a popular, personable fellow that no one seems concerned about this.

Not — Dirksen's latest campaign is directed against President Nixon's proposal to eliminate the 7 per cent investment tax credit. The big steel companies are bitterly opposed to giving up this tax bonanza. Dirksen also has promised to introduce legislation for the steel imports, although European and Japanese steel producers have offered to accept voluntary controls. The Dirksen law firm's clients include steel companies.

Liquor vs. Tobacco
The evils of liquor versus tobacco were argued recently at the House Commerce Committee hearings on continuing the law preventing the regulatory agencies from regulating cigaret advertising.

Rep. James Brophy, R-N.C., a tobacco state spokesman who demands no regulation of advertising, asked Dr. Luther Terry, former U. S. surgeon general, now Vice President of Medical Affairs at the University of Pennsylvania: "Why do you single out tobacco?"

"There are many other areas that I, as Surgeon General, brought to the attention of this Congress as being dangerous," contended Terry.

"I would think that hard liquor would be as much or more of a problem than cigarettes," argued Brophy.

"The principal differentiation that I would make," replied Terry, "is that even the average user of cigarettes subjects himself to considerable health danger. I think that the decreet and average use of alcohol probably does not have this effect. It is only the overuse."

Investment Tax Credit Ban Could Prove Inflationary

NEA Washington Correspondent

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A close study of price gains in the past decade indicates President Nixon's major anti-inflation tax proposal to Congress will be inflationary over the long run, whatever its short-run benefits.

That is, the government's own statistics, analyzed in detail, clearly suggest the President's move to end the investment tax credit for industrial modernization is likely to be self-defeating.

By and large, prices have risen only moderately in industries which have invested in modernization.

In manufacturing, where the liberal application of new equipment has increased output per man-hour almost 40 per cent, wholesale prices have risen but 10 per cent in the past decade.

In industries in which modernization has moved slowly, prices have risen more rapidly. This has produced the inflation that concerns Nixon and the nation.

Service costs generally are up 37 per cent, medical care 60 per cent, housing and home maintenance 31 per cent.

The investment credit Nixon would do away with was designed to produce the kind of modernization that seems to have kept prices down in those companies in which it has been applied. The evidence cited above suggests this credit was very successful indeed.

Presumably then, over the long run, the removal of the investment tax credit will result in somewhat less modernization than there would have been. If the past 10 years serve as a measure, that will, in turn, mean costs and prices in the industries concerned will go up more rapidly than otherwise.

A number of industries utilizing investment tax credits are in heavy competition with foreign countries. Steel, for one.

If these companies are less able to compete, the U.S. trade balance will suffer. This would put additional pressure on the already-shaky U.S. balance of payments. It could weaken the dollar.

In many cases, as in utilities, the loss of investment tax credit will be passed on to the consumer in higher (inflationary) rates.

Why then the proposal to reduce the investment tax credit? Talks with economists and political strategists suggest this reasoning behind the Nixon strategy:

1—Anything that reduces spending will have a short-term effect on inflation. The long-term problem can be handled later.

2—Psychologically, a strong move like this one has a shock effect. It convinces industry the administration means business. It thus discourages unnecessary expenditures hopefully over a much wider range than affected by the investment tax credit.

3—Politically, there's a strong feeling in Congress against the credit. Some legislators consider it a favor to big business at a time when the public is burdened by high taxes.

Curious Timing in Red Moves

NEA Washington Correspondent

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — It is interesting to note that the new Russian clampdown in Czechoslovakia was started — as if on signal — just when the North Korean downing of a U.S. Navy reconnaissance plane was capturing the headlines.

Almost simultaneously, Hanoi put new pressure in its spring offensive in South Vietnam.

Over the years, worldwide, there has been a curious timing in Communist moves. Almost as though one action or another was serving, in part at least, as a diversionary tactic.

Perhaps this timing has been accidental.

But from his stay in Communist China's military-political headquarters in Yenan in World War II, this reporter remembers one of Mao Tse-tung's favorite maxims, which may be paraphrased as follows:

If you want to defeat the enemy in the south, then strike him hard in the north and thus divert his forces from your objective.

Lin Piao, Mao's heir apparent, in a speech several years back, outlined how the Communists would achieve victory in Vietnam and elsewhere. He stated that to defeat the United States there must be simultaneous incidents worldwide that would so divide U.S. attention and energies that Washington could not concentrate its strength in any one place.

Now it is certain that if the North Koreans had not shot down an American plane at this time, the stepped-up Soviet ruthlessness in Czechoslovakia would have been the center of attention in this country.

But the shooting did occur. It so captured the attention of Americans that President Nixon at this press conference of Friday, April 18, remarked, "Looking at the Soviet Union, it seems to me that had it not been for this (plane) incident the major story that I would have been asked about today was what happened in Czechoslovakia." Yet Nixon was asked nothing on Czechoslovakia by any of the 322 reporters present.

The shooting down of the plane furthermore resulted in the creation of a sizable U. S. naval task force for operation in the Sea of Japan off North Korea. The ships and planes in that task force have been diverted in part, from Vietnam operations. That reduction in U.S. naval forces in South Vietnam is being only partially filled by the sending of two older carriers and other vessels. The Navy's contribution to the bombing effort in the war is being cut by roughly one-third.

Thus North Korea's destruction of a U. S. reconnaissance plane has brought two immediate spin-off benefits to the rest of the Communist world:

Some political pressure is taken off the Russian in Czechoslovakia. U.S. naval pressure is reduced against the enemy in South Vietnam. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

'Less Hazardous' Cigarette Now in Producing Stage

WASHINGTON (UPI)—It is now possible to produce a "less hazardous" cigarette in which a top cancer-causing tar has been reduced by 34 per cent, a researcher told Congress today.

Dr. Perry B. Hudson, Pali-sades, N.Y., said some tobacco companies are involved in "serious discussions" with the developers of the process. He called on the government to inform the public about the development.

Hudson is president of High Tor Foundation Inc., which has been experimenting with a formula called Chemosol. In testimony prepared for the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, Hudson said tobacco treated with Chemosol results in a safer cigarette without toxic side effects or change in taste.

He said three years of research indicate Chemosol acts on benzo (a) pyrene, a tar substance in tobacco which most researchers recognize as a cancer-causing agent.

"The smoke of cigarette tobacco treated with Chemosol, under properly controlled conditions, contains significantly less quantities of Benzo (a) pyrene," Hudson said. "Chemosol is nontoxic and does not affect the taste, flavor or aroma of cigarettes, and can be used in commercial cigarette production."

He said he had "independent tests" made as requested by the government and "the results of these independent tests clearly established that Chemosol effects a substantial reduction of benzo (a) pyrene of 34 per cent which considerably exceeds the percentage found necessary as being significant in diminishing tumorigenicity (tumor causing) of tars in cigarette smoke."

He said he has been "informed that serious discussions are being initiated by the American Chemosol Corp., which owns the Chemosol process, with commercial companies for the purpose of using Chemosol in cigarette manufacture."

"At a time when the health problems associated with cigarette smoking have reached a crisis stage, a practical, less hazardous cigarette treated with Chemosol can now be offered to the millions of smokers who will never be willing or able to give up smoking," Hudson said.

The committee is holding hearings on whether to extend a 1965 law which prohibits the government from regulating tobacco advertising.

Sale to Launch Metro Plan

ALBANY — During the past five years Montgomery Ward today announced the full operation of its giant Albany Metro plan of merchandising to include four area stores, Kingston, Albany, Poughkeepsie and Glens Falls.

For the purposes of purchasing power advantages and special sales promotions the four stores, and another in Niskayuna next year, are combined under the Albany Metro plan headed by Samuel S. Burgio of Menands. Burgio has been in retailing since 1953 and joined Wards in 1962.

Burgio said the Metro District concept will give the buying public the greatest value per dollar spent. Under the plan a large Metro warehouse in Menands will handle the inventory and supply problems for all the Metro stores. The warehouse is connected by direct communication with all the Wards stores and with all other Wards facilities throughout the U.S.

Each day a fleet of trucks will leave the Metro warehouse with merchandise to the Metro stores to replenish stocks and fill orders received from customers on the preceding day. The most modern equipment has been installed to make certain that the Wards customer receives the fastest and most courteous service.

In Operation Wednesday
By combining the purchasing power of these four multi-million dollar stores, Wards will now be able to buy merchandise not only by the truck or carload but in some cases by the trainload. The savings generated by this mass purchasing power will be passed on to the consumer.

The Metro plan will be in full operation by Wednesday. This is the date for the grand opening sale which introduces Metro Power to the residents of Kingston, Albany, Poughkeepsie and Glens Falls.

The theme of the sale will be Bigger Bargains for Better People. A Metro circular is now in the mails and can also be obtained at any of the four stores. There will also be hard-hitting newspaper advertisements to inform the public.

Wards has invested millions of dollars in the most modern computers and other devices to streamline its entire operation and to provide speedier and more efficient service.

Schoff Local Manager
In Kingston the store manager is Max L. Schoff, who has been with the company for 39 years. He has served as manager in five other stores and has been district manager for North and South Carolina, Alabama, Georgia and Florida. He is the father of three children and resides in Hurley.

The manager of the Albany retail store is Vincent R. Burns, who served as manager in Kingston for eight years. He was prominent in community activities in Kingston and served as a director and president of Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce.

The Metro staff includes James Eberwine, district operating manager, who resides in Clifton Park, and Alfred E. Smith, advertising manager, who holds the same position in the Kingston store.

There are four merchandising managers including Richard W. Martin, fashions and soft goods; Ernest B. LaVine, home furnishings; Carol J. Hill, home improvement and automotive; and Robert L. Hale, appliances and electronics.

On special assignment to the Metro staff is George R. Petrisin. The Metro warehouse manager is Joseph Potts.

Harriet Hansen, a former model and broadcaster, has been named director for Wendy Ward. The Wendy Ward program, initiated several years ago, is a prime example of the new image created by Wards. The program is geared to attract thousands of teenage girls who are interested in improving their makeup, posture and grooming. Many of the graduates of Wendy Ward Charm School have gone on to successful careers in fashions and modeling, it is reported.

ITT Hit With Suit After Recent Merger

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nixon administration trust-busters have made their second move in two weeks to short circuit the trend toward conglomerate mergers by filing suit against the giant International Telephone and Telegraph Co.

ITT was challenged Monday in Chicago's U.S. District Court on acquisition three days earlier of Canteen Corp., a national food and vending company with 1967 revenue of $322 million.

The Justice Department complaint charged the acquisition might trigger other mergers, a tendency government antitrust chief Richard W. McLaren says he means to stop.

ITT, the country's 12th largest business, thus joined Ling-Temco-Vought Inc., the 14th largest, as a defendant in separate government lawsuits to slow the rate of economic concentration.

Justice filed suit two weeks ago to stop LTV's purchase of Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp.

In addition to further entering economic power in a company whose 1967 sales were $3.6 billion, the government suit charged, the ITT-Canteen merger would strengthen ITT's power to favor its customers with purchases, a practice called reciprocity.

The young girl, police said, was thrown from the rear seat into the dashboard of the car during the mishap and died of head injuries.

Generally encouraging corporate news and Vietnam peace hopes again loom as constructive factors, although the first signs of a possible slowdown in the economy may be a major roadblock to any sustained advance. Sees No Hazard To Water Supply From New Plant

CROTON-ON-HUDSON, N.Y. (AP) — The head of New York City's Bureau of Water Pollution Control says "there is no hazard" of a third nuclear power plant at Indian Point contaminating the city's water supply.

Maurice Feldman, the bureau's commissioner, gave the testimony Monday at a public hearing of the Atomic Energy Commission's Safety and Licensing Board.

The board must make a recommendation on whether to grant Consolidated Edison Co.'s application for license to construct the Westchester County power plant, near Buchanan.

Feldman was asked at the hearing if water from the Chelsea pumping station, on the Hudson River 22 miles north of New York, might not be contaminated by nuclear waste from the Hudson River plant.

"I feel there is no hazard that would lead me to oppose such a facility," Feldman replied. He said the Chelsea station was only in use temporarily, and that the existing two Con Ed nuclear power plants at Indian Point had not polluted the city's water supply.

Approximately 230 customers in the Accord area were blacked out for almost an hour during the intense wind and rain storm last night.

A utility pole fire was the cause of the power failure which started at 10:52 p. m. Central Hudson repairmen restored service at 11:47 p. m.

It was believed that moisture from the heavy rain squall loosened wires resulting in the fire.

TOWN OF CLINTON edly found the defendants sleeping on mattresses on the floor. Quinlan and eight other deputies joined the investigation and later reported some material, believed to be narcotics, was seized and sent to the State Police laboratory for analysis.

The sheriff said that Jaffee also was charged with criminal possession of dangerous drugs, fourth degree. Bail of $1,000 was fixed on that charge.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

By JIM GILPATRIC

"Sarev First" is common sense. But, the slogan is ignored at times. Dictates of good judgment are disregarded. Surely there would be less fires, less accidents, less grief, if the thought of safety motivated us to do certain things ahead of time. For example, a simple, easy, safety precaution we can see needed in many places is seldom thought about. In fact, we believe this easy-to-do thing has rarely, if ever, been publicized before.

Firemen, policemen, ambulance crews, cab drivers or other persons who may have occasion to be called to your home in an emergency will agree this easy-to-do thing is a sound, sensible act. All of them would appreciate your help in making it easier for them to help you if and when you may need help—quickly.

This "help" is in having your house number in an easy-to-see spot! Have you looked at it lately, yourself? Can it be clearly and instantly seen, day or NIGHT? Is it covered with an obstruction—or paint? If repair, relocation or replacement is needed, would it not be a good idea to take care of it—today—and play "safe"?

Youth to Give His Own Kidney To Aid Sister

NEW YORK (AP) — Carlos Vieira, 20, hopes to give the gift of life to his sister, Juanita, 21, who is gravely ill with two diseased kidneys.

In a transplant operation scheduled for today at New York Hospital, he will part with one of his own kidneys in an effort to improve her chances to live.

"There is really very little danger to me," Carlos said Monday. "But even if there were I would go through with it. My sister and I are very close. I can live with one kidney."

"I'm terribly frightened," admitted Juanita, an attractive, darkhaired girl. "I want everything to turn out well."

Juanita and Carlos are the only children of Carlos Vieira Sr., 69, a retired merchant seaman, and his wife, Milagres, 50, of Cresskill, N.J.

Juanita was stricken at 14 with an inflammation of the kidneys caused by an incident of streptococci infection. Her condition has grown progressively worse. An attack five weeks ago was nearly fatal.

The cost of the operation and the prolonged postoperative care will be about $60,000 which the Kidney Foundation is under writing.

In Cresskill, however, there is a drive under way to raise funds to help defray the costs.

"I'm sure our whole community will get behind them," said Mayor Bertholf Terhune. He said the fundraising effort was being headed by the Teenagers Recreation Committee.

NEW.. "SLEEP + ASPIRIN"

tablets help you Pop right off to Sound, Safe Sleep

WITHOUT NARCOTIC SLEEPING PILLS

New York, N.Y. (Special) ... A New York chemist has perfected a remarkable "Asper-Sleep" formula which unites in one small tablet 3 safe aids to sound, refreshing sleep. No other sleeping tablets offer so much comfort ... yet are not habit-forming!

Never before has there been such a combination to help you solve the problem of sleeplessness—to bring restful natural-like slumber ... without addictive drugs. No prescription is needed—just ask for "Asper-Sleep Tablets". For 100% safe sleep take as directed.

The reason you can fall asleep so fast and sleep like a log is that each Asper-Sleep tablet contains these 3 ingredients:

(1) an anti-histamine which doctors have proved as effective as the usual dose of phenobarbital ... yet Asper-Sleep is mild and safe.

(2) A sedative with gentle tranquilizing aid to invite mental calm.

(3) Last but not least, Asper-Sleep contains analgesic, pain-relieving aspirin. This curbs the discomforts of headaches, colds, aches, and other conditions for which aspirin is famous ... including the minor aches and pains of arthritis and rheumatism.

So get your sleep tonight without the depressing after-effects of narcotic drugs. Asper-Sleep contains no habit-forming, no narcotics. You pop off to sleep and wake up "bright-eyed and bushy-tailed", not dull or dozy. During the night you are relaxed, yet responsive to emergencies.

Money back guarantee: Unless Asper-Sleep brings you better, faster, more natural sleep than any sleeping tablet you have ever taken ... return the partly used bottle and get all your money back. Ask for Asper-Sleep at druggists, 89¢.

Need Is Urgent

Gov. Rockefeller, who originally called for the full time DA legislation, explains that "The growth of crime, particularly in our urban and rapidly expanding suburban areas, and the growing complexity of modern law enforcement make the need for full time district attorneys increasingly urgent."

Mrs. George Jorgensen, member of the Saugerties Society of Little Gardens, "Drying and Preserving of Flowers" to a near capacity membership turnout at the Society's recent meeting.

Mrs. Jorgensen discussed eight different methods used to dry exotic tropical plants and also those native to the Hudson Valley area.

The Society enjoyed watching Mrs. Jorgensen skillfully create many beautiful and artistic arrangements. She encouraged the members "to let their imagination run wild" as they use corn stalks, lilac pods or grape vines in their own arrangements.

The next regular meeting of the Society will be held on May 14 at the United Methodist Church from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Mrs. Herbert Decker from the Rhinebeck Garden Club will conduct a flower arranging workshop.

Saugerties Woman's Club Elects New Officers; Reports Given

The final general meeting of the 1968-69 year for the Woman's Club of Saugerties was held Thursday, April 24, with first vice-president Mrs. John Janeczek presiding. A ballot was presented to the membership and the new officers and department chairmen were elected for the 1969-70 year.

New officers for the club are Mrs. William Ashmore, president; Mrs. Edward Jabs, first vice-president; Miss Jeanette Gustin, second vice-president; Mrs. Thomas Zulick, secretary; Mrs. Oliver Lackie, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Patrick Buonfiglio, treasurer; and Mrs. Walter Stolte, assistant treasurer.

The new department chairmen include: art, Mrs. Stephen Ryan; education, Mrs. Nicholas Pinto; home, Mrs. Edward Rusczyk; international affairs, Mrs. James Mills; public affairs, Mrs. Richard Redder; and literature and music, Mrs. Joseph Kramer.

The Woman's Club of Saugerties has enjoyed an active year as evidenced by the annual reports of the outgoing officers and department chairmen. Mrs. Robert Moser, education department, reported her committee's activities in arranging for Raymond Nelson, Headmaster of Ulster Academy, as speaker for the Club's general meeting in September, sponsorship of Senior Girl Scout Troop 152, and conducting the Children's Story Hour held two Saturdays every month at the Saugerties Public Library.

Public affairs department chairman Mrs. Walter Stolte told of the projects she and her committee have completed for the year. In October Mrs. John Gregg, Associate Dean of Students, State University of New York at Albany, spoke to the Club about her recent study seminar in Russia, Czechoslovakia and other points of interest.

A Poster Contest was held in March in connection with "Clean-Up Week" in Saugerties, with the posters being displayed at various Saugerties businesses. Mrs. Stolte also reported on the successful completion of the two-year-old project for the demolition of the Exquisite Form Industries building on Rt. 9W at the owner's expense. This project was begun under the chairmanship of Mrs. Joseph Sullivan.

Mrs. William Hayes, art department, listed an active year for her committee, with arrangements made for Mrs. Raymond Bonestell to speak to the Club in November on the art of rug hooking. Several classes were made available and included a class in mosaics, a class in handmade Christmas tree ornaments, and a ten-week class now in progress in rug hooking being taught by Mrs. Bonestell. Also, a bus trip to New York Museums was scheduled for April 27.

International affairs chairman Mrs. Joseph Hemphill reported on her committee's successful sale of UNICEF Christmas cards, as well as the arrangements for Mrs. Hanna Kiep, German Diplomat, to speak to the Club in January on the role of women in German politics and society.

Mrs. Edward Rusczyk listed the Home Department's activities, which included guest speaker Mrs. Marion Kamp, interior designer, who addressed the Club in February, a class in wooden plaques, a talk on rugs and their care from a representative of Colonial City Carpet Company of Kingston, and their final project in flower arranging scheduled for May 6.

The Literature and Music Committee report was given by Chairman Mrs. Thomas Zulick. Her committee projects included a book drive for local servicemen in Vietnam, which was so successful that books were also sent to the Veteran's Hospital at Castle Point. Guest speaker for March was Mrs. Jane Tonnese, who presented a factual and witty account of "How Music Grew." The Children's Theatre project was a successful community effort this year, and was an extremely well-received presentation.

Mrs. Zulick also reported on the work done in connection with the health survey in Saugerties. The Woman's Club was asked by the Saugerties Neighborhood Service Center Advisory Board to work with the Ulster County Community Action Committee Inc., and the Health Council of the Community Chest Planning Committee on a health survey to determine the need for a Diagnostic Clinic in Saugerties.

The survey was considered very successful and 95 per cent of the responses to the questionnaire indicated the need for such a clinic. Membership Chairman Mrs. William Ashmore told of the successful Membership Tea that was held in October, and recommended that it become an annual affair.

Mrs. Nicholas Pinto, chairman of the ways and means committee, deferred her annual report until after the luncheon and fashion show scheduled for May 10. Her report will be given at the combined board meeting on Thursday, May 15. Mrs. Pinto's committee has been very active throughout the year with such projects as a toy party, a candy sale, a rummage sale, the Valentine Buffet Dinner-Dance with a benefit for the Ruth M. Gustin Memorial Scholarship Fund.

New business presented to the Club included the announcement of the Scholastic Committee, with Mrs. John Janeczek serving as chairman, who will present their findings to the Board at the May 15 meeting. Mrs. William Ashmore reported on her trip with Mrs. Richard Redder to the New York State Federation of Woman's Clubs Convention in Syracuse recently. The membership expressed sincere thanks to Mrs. Redder, retiring president, for all her active leadership throughout the 1968-69 year.

Aaron Raps 513th; Now in Sixth Place

(By United Press International) Hank Aaron is two up on Babe Ruth this season but he's still 202 behind the Babe in lifetime homers.

Aaron cracked his third homer of the season Monday night in Atlanta's 12-1 victory over the Houston Astros to pass former teammate Eddie Mathews and move into sixth place on the all-time homer list with 513.

Ruth holds the lifetime mark but the Babe gained one this season, increasing his lifetime total from the long recognized figure of 714 to 715. A special committee studying old statistics recently uncovered another homer which Ruth previously hadn't been given credit for and the record will be officially changed at the end of the season.

Other Action

Elsewhere in the National League, Chicago nipped Philadelphia, 2-1 in 10 innings. St. Louis drubbed Pittsburgh, 6-2. Los Angeles edged San Diego, 4-3, and San Francisco topped Cincinnati, 4-3.

Ron Santo singled in a run in the 10th inning to give the Cubs the win over the Phils but the drama was packed into the last of the 10th when the Phils landed the bases against Ted Abernathy with the help of a throwing error by Randy Hundley, his first in 80 games. Abernathy then retired the side on three straight grounders to preserve the win.

Bases-Loaded Single

Joe Torre's bases-loaded single highlighted a three-run inning that sparked the erratic Cardinals past the Pirates. Steve Carlton pitched a four-hitter for the Cards. The Cards had 11 hits off loser Bob Moose and three other pitchers with Lou Brock, Curt Flood, Vada Pinson and Tim McCarver each collecting two. If they keep that kind of hitting up, the Cards won't have many problems in the future.

A carefree move by a ball boy helped Los Angeles beat San Diego with a two-run ninth inning on hits by three straight pinch-hitters. The key blow came when Wes Parker hit a

Sawyer Golfers Defeat Farley

Saugerties High golfers topped Cardinal Farley of Rhinebeck by seven strokes, 223-230, in a match at the Sawyerkill Country Club Monday.

Scores soared on the long, wet Sawyerkill layout and high winds, as Steve Benham paced the Sawyers with a 55.

Mike Kleintert posted 55 for the winners; Dave Kleintert 56 and Donald Treat 57.

Dave Gleason of CFMA posted low gross of 52. Other scores: Fred Angle 54, Rory Schully and Jim Joustre, 62 each.

shot down the left field line after Bill Russell singled. As Parker was rounding first, the ball boy picked up the ball. Umpire Lee Meyer, who ruled the ball fair, awarded Parker a triple to tie the game although Russell would have scored anyway. But with Parker on third, he was able to score on a hard grounder to deep shortstop by Ken Boyer.

OCS Indians Win on Track

BOICEVILLE

Onteora High School's track team played host to the Rondout Valley Ganders Monday and defeated the visitors, 83-44. Most of the times posted in the running events were very good.

Rondout Wins Game In UCAL

STONE RIDGE

Rebounding from two straight losses, Rondout Valley High School's baseball team handed defending champion Marlboro its second setback of the Ulster County Athletic League season Monday, 10-3, at the Ganders' home field.

Rondout did most of its scoring early, coming up with four runs in the first inning and two in the second. The victory left Rondout, Marlboro and Onteora in a three-way tie for fourth place, each 1-2.

Tom Williams picked up the win for the Ganders, giving up but four hits, fanning six and issuing the same number of free passes. Vinny Monti took the loss and was relieved by Paul Ibsen in the fourth inning.

Keith Gorman went three-for-three for the winners, including a two-run double in the four-run first stanza. George Wallack also had three-for-four, with a double and Bill Parete went two-for-three and drove in two more runs with a double.

considering the condition of the Indians' oval.

Craig Hubbell turned in the best time in the mile, run on the track in the past three years as he broke the tape in 4 minutes 47 seconds. Head Coach Bernie Stahl said of Hubbell's performance, "Considering the condition of our track, which is always a little slow, Hubbell's performance was a noteworthy one. There has been a better time, but this is the best one in a long time," he concluded.

The winners scored 12 first place victories out of possible 15, in posting the win, Mike Welty, Dave Snyder and Roger Adsit were double winners for Stahl's cindermen.

Welty beat out teammates, Rich Ostrander in the 180 low hurdles, as he flashed across the line in 22.5 seconds. Marvelous Mike also took first place in the long jump with a leap of 18 feet 3 inches.

Snyder posted back-to-back victories in the 100-yard dash and the 220. Dave hit 10.6 seconds in the 100 and 23.4 in the 220.

Adsit helped ice the victory with double wins in the shot put and discus. Roger put the shot 37 feet 9 inches and tossed the discus feet.

Onteora now has a season's record of 3 wins, no losses and one tie. Coach Stahl added, "It has been the best, all-around performance our team has had all year."

The Indians' next meet will be against Liberty on Friday and Coach Stahl will split his squad, as some of the boys will be participating in the Hudson Invitational at Hudson.

Rae Jet Runs In Derby Trial

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The smallest, fastest and most competitive field in recent Kentucky Derby history may have swelled by one today while last year's Derby continued in a swirl of judicial whirlpool.

Tommy Cosdon, trainer for Rae Jet, said a finish among the first four places in today's Derby Trial Stakes would earn the son of War Jeep a start in Saturday's $125,000-added classic.

"Sure those big stables may be afraid to try it, but we're just a bush league bunch. All we want is a shot," Cosdon, a former rock 'n' roll singer said.

Eight horses were entered in the one-mile trial, with only one or two expected to earn credentials to face the Big Four of this racing season in the 1¼-mile Derby.

Meantime, Peter Fuller confirmed he plans to continue his appeals of the purse redistribution that came after his Dancer's Image won last year's Derby, but later was accused of having an illegal medication in his system.

He said he felt his appeal of a Kentucky Racing Commission ruling on the Derby purse redistribution.

Dear Abby

Tired of Covering-up

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

(© 1969 by Chicago Tribune, N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: A dear friend of mine is a very attractive, young divorcee with two small children. Lately she's been spending her week-ends out of town with her boss, who is married.

Here's the problem: She has been leaving her children at her mother's on week-ends, and telling her mother that she's spending the week-end with my husband and me.

I realize this is wrong. My husband says he has covered up for her for the last time, and if I don't tell her she can no longer use us as a cover-up. HE will tell her.

I can't tell her, Abby. It would be like the pot calling the kettle "black" because before I got married I was no better than she is. What should I do?

DEAR PAL: Your friend, "the kettle" could be brewing up an explosive mixture of evidence which could result in losing custody of her children, and bring much unhappiness to the family of her married boyfriend. You're not a "pot" anymore, so tell her, without sitting in judgement, that you'll no longer be a party to this game.

DEAR ABBY: My girl is absolutely perfect, except for one thing. She doesn't know how to dress.

This may not seem like such a big thing to you, but it's important to me. She's not sloppy or anything like that, but some of the outfits she comes up with are awful. It's not that she can't afford to dress better either, as she has a good-paying job and spends a lot for her clothes. I don't want to hurt her feelings, but how can I let her know that some of her outfits really turn me off?

NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: If you can get one of her better-dressed girl friends to tip her off, fine. Otherwise, you can muster, you tell her. Girls want to please their boyfriends in the manner of dress. And if you can't be that honest with her, you're not operating on the same wave length.

DEAR ABBY: Tell "LAWYER'S WIFE" she has a lot to learn about common law marriages.

My parents had such a marriage for 18 years. Then my father died and Mother was told that since she was not his "legal" wife, she would receive no widow's pension, altho Dad had served 30 years in the navy. They did give us the enormous sum of $18 a month for each of us kids. And that was in 1950! There were two of us (ages 10 and 12) and you can bet that my poor mother had a hard time of it.

If Lawyer's Wife thinks we should have taken our case to court, that's a laugh. Who wants to advertise such a situation? Sign me.

"FOR MARRIAGE, ALSO"

DEAR ABBY: Your column is even funnier than you think it is to some of us over here in Da Nang. A "worried mother" in Oakland, Me., set what she considered a "reasonable" curfew for her 18-year-old son. Nine o'clock on weekdays, and midnight on week-ends. Somebody ought to tell that lady that a lot of us fighting men are exactly the same age as her son. Including—

"FONEBONE THE NIGHT OWL"

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

MAIL MAIL: (Q.) I don't know how long this has been going on. I just found out about it a week ago and I'm going crazy. My mother opens my mail!

I found out because a guy in the service started writing to me. When I got home from school I'd ask if I had any mail and the answer was no. Then I found all his letters in a drawer. My mother had been opening them and keeping them.

Since I found out she's been steaming my mail open and sealing it before I get home. I think this is pretty low down and rotten, a really sneaky and ignorant thing.

Maybe she's trying to protect me. I don't know from what. If she is, she's doing a terrible job of it.

She'll probably open your reply to me. Will you help me?—C. in Enid, Okla.

(A.) Almost every mother tries to protect her daughter, and many overdo it. Opening mail or demanding to read it is one of the worst ways of overprotecting.

Talk to your mother as you have to me. Show her my personal letter to you. Explain to her earnestly but not angrily that a teenage girl has the right to privacy. Tell her you will not try to keep anything important from her.

Also, if you can do so honestly, tell her you have not tried to keep anything important from her. All of this may have started because she got the idea somehow that you were trying to hide something. If you were, or are, quit trying, and I believe your trouble can be cleared up quickly.

WRONG SIDE: (Q.) My boy friend always walks on the wrong side when he walks home from school. I get so embarrassed. He's 17 and I'm only 14, so you'd think he'd know!—S. in Hobbs, N.M.

(A.) It used to be PROPER (PERIOD) for a boy to walk on the outside to protect you from horses, mud, and the like. It is still PREFERRED.

When a boy friend doesn't follow the rules of etiquette that others in your town or area follow, be kind enough to tell him, but do it tactfully.

Boys often look to us girls to keep them straight on these matters. And they are usually glad to be told, if we do it in a nice way.

New Gadgets Aid Grand Slam Bid

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The bidding looks crazy indeed but North and South knew what they were doing. North's two no-trump was the Jacoby two no-trump. It had nothing to do with no-trump but merely forced to four spades.

South's jump to four clubs showed a good hand with no clubs. The Jacoby two no-trump demands that opener show a singleton if he has one by bidding the suit, and a void by jumping in the suit except that he treats a void and poor hand as a singleton. North had a minimum for his first bid but the club void improved his hand and he cue bid his diamond ace.

South showed the ace of hearts and North decided to sign off at game. South didn't stop there. His five-diamond bid showed second-round diamond control, whereupon North was willing to show his king of hearts.

South's five no-trump wasn't a real no-trump bid. It was the so-called grand slam force invented by Ely Culbertson over 30 years ago and rescued from limbo by modern bidders.

It asked North for the quality of his trumps. With two of the three top honors, North would have bid seven spades, with very poor trumps North would have bid six clubs, six diamonds, et cetera, and the six spade bid said, "I don't have two of the three top honors but I do think well of my trump holding."

The last was enough to get South to the grand slam. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

South has no trouble taking all the tricks with spades as trump. He simply wins the trump lead, plays a second trump and shows his hand. He can discard one of dummy's clubs on the queen of hearts and trump the other three.

The bidding is something else. When the hand was played in a recent tournament, half the pairs stopped at game. Only a few reached the grand slam. The bidding in the box shows how one couple got there by use of some modern gadgets.

Paltz Rejects the Alternate, Original Sewer Plant Upheld

By BRUCE KAUFMAN

NEW PALTZ The New Paltz Village Board announced at its regular meeting, Monday night, that a costly plan to change the site of a controversial sewage plant has been rejected, and that the board will proceed to solicit bids, shortly, on the original proposal.

The decision to go ahead with the development of the Sewage plant adjoining Huguenot Street in the Village of New Paltz, reached at a special meeting of the board April 15, was adopted after the board determined that a plan to seek an alternate location would be too expensive. The board also noted that the accompanying delay would risk the loss of state and federal aid for the project.

In other business the board quickly approved the 1969-1970 annual budget, announcing an increase in the property tax of $1.28 per $1,000 on assessed value, received a report from the New Paltz fire chief, approved a parade route, and discussed a variety of local issues.

The controversy over development of the proposed sewage plant, was spurred at an informal meeting held in the Village Hall March 31, where several residents asked the board whether the proposed plant would be "detrimental to the health and beauty of the historic Huguenot Street area."

They also requested that the board look into the possibility of developing a new facility in a different area.

The villages present sewage treatment plant is also located off Huguenot Street.

New Paltz Mayor Henry Dubois, assured the residents the new plant was of the most modern design, that the area around it would be properly landscaped, and air pollution would be practically eliminated.

The board based its April 15 decision to go ahead with the original development plan on two major factors.

At a special meeting of the board April 9, the trustees were advised by the engineering firm of Brinnier and Larios that the cost of relocating and purchasing new lands, would increase the cost of the total project by approximately $10,000. Also the board had been advised that federal assistance for the project had been temporarily suspended because of the controversy.

The board therefore concluded that since no funds were available to meet the costs of changing the site and due to increasing construction costs the possible loss of state and federal aid, and the board's desire to keep taxes at a minimum, the original plan would be pursued.

The board also unanimously approved the Village of New Paltz, annual budget for the coming fiscal year, which included a slight tax increase to offset increased operational costs.

The newly established tax rate for property owners in the village will be $45 per $1,000 of assessed value. This represents an increase of $1.28 over last year's rate. The change was made despite a small increase on the total assessment of the Village.

The principle increase in the new budget is in the area of salaries for Village employees.

The Village of New Paltz will expend a total of $453,577.50 in the coming fiscal year. Of this $302,616 will be vested in the general fund, $98,150 in the water district, and $52,811.50 in the sewer district.

The primary sources of revenue will be state aid, fees, the college, water metering, and sewage rent. The remainder of the needed revenues, $151,205.20 must be raised through taxation.

In other action the New Paltz Village Board received and approved the annual report from the New Paltz Fire-Department, which was submitted by Chief James Ashton.

Trustee William George announced that due to the wet weather the New Paltz Cleanup drive which was scheduled to be concluded today, will be continued until Wednesday.

Two Rhinebeck School Moves

RHINEBECK Two resolutions were passed by close margins in the Rhinebeck School Board meeting Monday night.

The major item was the addition of another elementary physical education teacher, which passed 4-3.

The other was a motion introduced by Peter Grimm to mail a general letter of protest of the state education commissioner's "dictatorial powers" to the governor and legislators, which passed 5-2.

Hans Boehm, board member, brought up the question of hiring an additional physical education teacher. "I noticed from our public meeting April 10 that there seemed to be a great demand for this service, and this is why we have such meetings," he said. "Instead of curtailing physical education in the first and second grades, I suggest hiring another teacher for elementary education."

Grimm went on record as opposing the appointment, suggesting that it was not a priority item and that physical growth is not really affected in a child of seven or eight years.

James Kelly, announced a "change of heart," and said that he was, in favor of the hiring. After discussion, the vote revealed four in favor and three against.

William Asher, president of the board, suggested preparing a similar statement for the meeting of the School Board Association.

Supervising Principal Russell

Steeves cleared up the controversy about sex education in the schools by reading a notice from the state department of education, which said that "the department does recommend inclusion of sex education as part of health sciences, but does not mandate it."

Steeves pointed out that a half year course in health is mandated in junior high, and a half year course is mandated in senior high, as well as progressive instruction on desirable behavior, attitudes, and knowledge in the elementary years.

"A teacher must hold a special certificate to teach health in secondary education force. They were Harold Thayer, senior high mathematics; Susan B. Morton, education is left up to the individual board," Libbey, pre-first grade.

AND TALK ABOUT ECONOMY! OIL HEAT SAVES UP TO 66% OVER UTILITY HEATING FUELS —

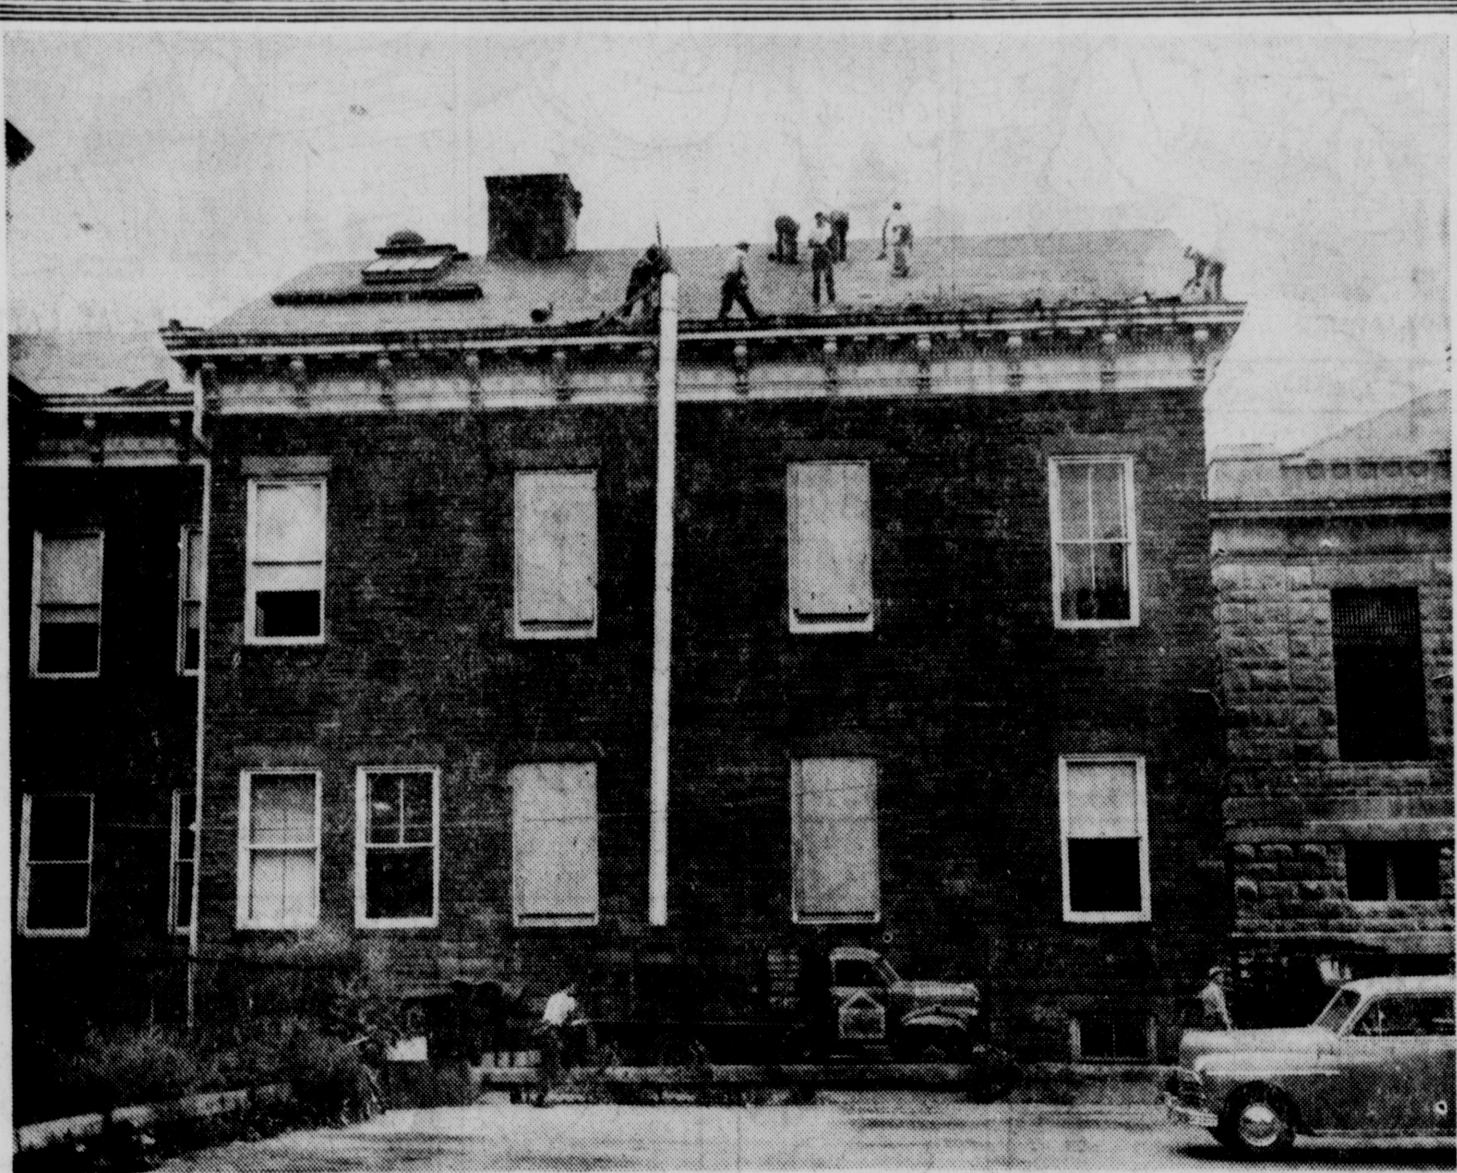

Here's a down-to-earth, no-argument way to compare Oil Heat's low, low cost with a utility fuel: If you were to heat your home electrically, at prevailing rates of 1 1/2¢ per KWH, for example, that would be equivalent, in terms of what you could spend for the same heat with oil, to 48.9¢ per gallon! But everyone knows that oil heat costs only about one-third of that.

The average yearly contribution by the Lions' Blind and Sight Conservation Committee is $3,500 and includes projects such as clinics, annual picnics, eye bank operations, the purchase of equipment such as braille readers and typewriters, as well as transportation.

The Lions' Education Committee offers a yearly scholarship of $4,000 to Kingston High School students wishing to further their studies at an

Primary Part

The many community activities that are a direct result of Lions Club Annual Expositions and Home Shows are a primary part of its objectives:

- * To create and foster a spirit of generous consideration among the people of the world through a study of the problems of international relationships.
- * To promote the theory and practice of the principles of good government and good citizenship.
- * To take an active interest in the civic, social and moral welfare of the community.
- * To unite the members in the bonds of friendship, good fellowship and mutual understanding.
- * To provide a forum for the full and free discussion of all matters of public interest, with the exception of partisan politics and sectarian religion, and
- * To encourage efficiency and promote high ethical standards in business and professions; provided that no club shall hold out as one of its objects financial benefits to its members.

Lionism, says the club, is a non-sectarian service club comprised of a brotherhood of unselfish men organized to meet the needs of their community.

An Exposition First

For the first time at the annual Lions Club Exhibition, patrons will be able to view and listen to all stage shows from any point in the exhibition area. This is being made possible compliments of the H & M TV Rental and Antenna Installation Service who have installed a closed circuit television system throughout the hall. The television camera will be equipped with a special zoom lens to give the viewing public close up views of all the stage action. H and M TV also will be able to display public notices on the television screens throughout the show area as well as informing the public of the up coming show times.

The H and M booth will have a quaint touch of Old New Orleans with fountains, scenic background and gardens. On display in the booth will be various types of UHF, VHF and FM antennas, tower and pipe supports, chimney mounts and antenna accessories, including antenna motors. The booth will also have on display a master television distribution system, video tape equipment, including monitor, camera and recorder, a closed circuit television system which will give visitors the ability to see themselves on television and a "do-it-yourself" TV distribution kit. Questions concerning television antennas and video tape will be entertained free of charge. Visitors interested in having antennas installed, repaired or removed may stop at the booth for free estimates.

Beautiful Young Ladies Are Featured at Expo

KINGSTON cooperation of the entire county to promote the pageant, finance the staging and the scholarships, and also help in getting the most beautiful girls in their community to become contestants. The entire organization consists of volunteers, all public-spirited men and women, winners and former contestants working together to provide this tremendous opportunity for some Ulster County young lady.

Initial Promotion

The initial promotional work of the Pageant Committee is conducted each year at the annual Kingston Lions Club Exposition at the State Armory.

As in previous years the Miss Ulster County Pageant Committee will have a booth decorated with some of the loveliest young ladies of Ulster County. This year is no exception. There will be three top winners among the booth attendants and also last year's two runners-up.

Heading the bevy of pulchritude at the booth will be Diana Jean Knight, 22-year-old blonde Miss Ulster County of 1969. The blue-eyed West Hurley miss will appear Friday night and all day Saturday to answer questions of prospective contestants for the 1970 pageant to be staged in August.

In addition Janis C. Johnson, Miss Ulster County of 1968, who heads the entries committee for this year, will also be present at the County Pageant booth to sign up new contestants.

Miss Pamela Davis, Miss Saugerties of 1966, now married to 1st Lieut. Michael Suenrun, stationed in Vietnam, will also be in attendance to answer questions about the pageant. The list of beautiful girls will include Lynn Merch of Woodstock, first runner-up last year, and Joy Ives of Ulster Park, second runner-up.

Jeffrey Buchle, who is in charge of the pageant display said pictures of previous pageants will be displayed and entry blanks and programs of former pageants will be available at the booth. Other members of the pageant committee board of directors and chaperones of the girls will also be in attendance.

The tentative date for the 1970 pageant is this coming August 23 at Saugerties High School auditorium.

WHERE THE ARTIST LEARN THEIR THING

Famed Woodstock Art Colony To Be Honored at Exposition

Honoring Woodstock as the foremost artist colony in the country, the Lions Club Exposition at the New York State Armory will sponsor an exhibition and art program as a finale to its 22nd annual show on May 3rd.

The exhibit will consist of 350-square feet of paintings and compositions, including works of such well known artists as John Pike, Jerry Jerominek, Stefan Lokos and Brock Brockenshaw. Many of the colony's art schools studios are also scheduled to take part.

Representatives of each school will be on hand Saturday, May 3, to answer questions and to explain techniques of the works that may be purchased by the public.

A participating organization will include the Woodstock School of Art, located within walking distance of the center of the village. The school property was once a public spot frequented by Sinclair Lewis and other writers and artists.

The Art Student League Summer School is also participating. The first session of the summer school, part of the Art Students League of New York, was held here in 1909.

The Young People's Studio for children up to age 12 will also have works on exhibition at the Lions Club finale. The John Pike Watercolor school, another participating organization, is located in the center of an 18-acre wooded estate within walking distance of the hamlet.

Mountian Airways Among Exhibitors

For the first time, this year, Bob DeEsso, air freight manager.

The public is also invited to register for free seats on a Mountain Airways flight—four to be given away; one each night, with drawing each evening of the show at 9 p.m.

Evening flights on fully lighted runways, were inaugurated in 1968. In January, 1969, Robert DeEsso was added as a full time staff member, specializing in air freight handling.

'Mardi Gras '69'...Expo Theme

Something new has been added to this year's 22nd Annual Kingston Lions Club Exposition. An entirely new show theme has been developed for each of the five nights and a separate and distinct program has been planned for each particular night. The theme of the Exposition will be "Mardi Gras '69". In addition to the already announced Home and Health Exhibits at this year's exposition, and the popular Sports-A-Rama feature from last year, Chairman Tom Henebery has announced, "This years Mardi Gras theme and program is really something to roar about".

Tonight's Sports-A-Rama has the New York Jets Jerry Philbin making a guest appearance. On Wednesday a dog show will be held. On Thursday evening there will be a fashion show called "Basin Street Promenade". Friday evening will feature a Children's Small World Show and Saturday evening will feature an Art Show with guest John Pike.

Lion Joseph Tremper has announced that besides the nightly prizes awarded by both the exposition committee and the many exhibitors, there will be five major prizes as well. First prize to be awarded Saturday evening will be $2,500.00 in cash; runner up prizes will include a console TV; a Hi-Fi stereo; a complete super 8-3 piece movie outfit; and a portable color television set. Tremper has pointed out that attendance at the exposition is not necessary to win one of these prizes.

Free Physical Exams For Senior Citizens

All Senior Citizens of the area are urged to take advantage of the free medical examination which will be made available at the Kingston Lions Show on April 30, between 2 and 4 p.m. According to an announcement made by Alexander Yosman, Coordinator of the Senior Citizens Advisory Council. This examination is made available through the generosity of the Kingston Lions Club and the cooperation of the New York State Department of Health and the Ulster County Medical Association.

The examination includes such items as electrocardiogram, glaucoma eye test, diabetes test and others vital to health.

said rehearsals will start August 4. He noted there would be orientations meeting held in July in various communities in the county.

This year's reigning queen, Miss Knight is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Knight of West Hurley. The five foot-eight blonde is currently employed by International Business Machines Corp. She graduated from Onteora Central High School in 1964 and attended Syracuse University and State University College of Forestry up to 1968. She won the talent portion of the contest in which she was crowned Miss Ulster County with a dialogue about being the only girl in her College of Forestry class.
